

Youth and wine's old tradition

PLEASANTON — The 89-year-old tradition of making good wine at the Ruby Hills Winery on Vineyard Avenue will continue in the hands of new young owners who are making it their "back to the land" project.

The idea started with Harry and Len Rosingana, who heard that Southern Pacific wanted to sell Ruby Hills. The winery had been purchased with home development in mind, but SP decided that's too far down the road.

"We heard about it through the grapevine," Rosingana said. "I was tired of working eight or 10 hours a day in a downtown office in L.A. and then in San Jose I decided I wanted to do something I really wanted to do."

So he left his job behind the ledgers at Mirrasou Winery and he and his brother took on a few partners and purchased the 300 acres which once were owned by the legendary Ernest Ferrario.

Ferrario had a strong love of the land and the young men hope to imitate that dedication by turning out a wine that is high in quality, aimed mostly at a Bay Area market.

"We're not interested in becoming a big winery. We just want to make good wine," said Frederico Medrano, one of the paisano partners whose ancestors came from the best wine region in the world, the Mediterranean.

Or as Mark Berardinelli, the group's marketing manager said, "We was a joost sittin' around drinkin' some wine and we

"When you run this picture, be sure you tell your readers it's these grapes that make the good wine, not us," said the man in the white T-shirt, Chris Lagiss. He's the winemaker for Stony Ridge Winery on Ruby Hills' old 300 acres of land on Vineyard Avenue in Pleasanton. said, Si, we can do that." The mock-Italian dialect was for effect, but he wasn't kidding about carrying on the tradition of the old world wine makers.

Chris Lagiss, a Greek-American with many years experience in area wineries, has even stronger views on tradition. He's the winemaker, probably the one person who more than any other makes a winery go.

Big modern wineries concentrate on volume and they put a lot of additives in the grape juice so that each batch is predictable, said Lagiss. Stony Ridge will be making wine in the old tradition, with nothing added. "You'll get a fruity taste, a much stronger flavor," said Medrano, who used to be an Alameda County social worker.

The men picked the name Stony Ridge for the label because SP sold the Ruby Hills label to another winery. "We climbed up on the ridge behind the fields and noticed it had a lot of rocks on it, so we called it Stony Ridge," said Medrano, who is the firm's public relations director.

They plan to change the name eventually, when they find a cognomen they like better. Meanwhile there is no truth to the rumor the label will have a picture of the Stoned Ranger on it.

Stony Ridge won't advertise to pull in the tourists. They are relying on word of mouth to bring customers to the winery at 1188 Vineyard Ave. Otherwise revenues will come from sales to restaurants around the Bay Area and to a few fine wine stores. The Station in Livermore has become the first valley restaurant to stock Stony Ridge wine. The wine sold now is a mixture of Stony Ridge's grapes and other grapes. There won't be a full harvest of grapes until this fall.

After the wine from next fall's harvest ages for a couple of years, the winery will bring out its own varietals including Chardonnay, Malvasia, Semillon and Barbera. They will have a Nouveau a few months after the harvest because its fermentation period is brief.

"If you tell your readers one thing, tell them it isn't us who are good at making wine, it's the grapes. These are the best grapes around," said Lagiss.

Union and board meet: no news—racing scratched

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Despite a last minute meeting between county supervisors and striking employees, today's scheduled race meet at the fairgrounds has been scrubbed.

Further frustrating attempts to pull pickets from their 28-day vigil at the grounds, superior court judge George W. Phillips, Jr., continued his hearings on an injunction being sought by the fair board against the striking union.

Valley supervisorial representative John D. Murphy and board chairman Fred F. Cooper met with union leaders last night in the first face-to-face talks in more than a week.

Cooper vowed three weeks ago not to meet with the union unless the talks were held in the board's chambers and open to the press and public.

But the union in turn demanded marathon negotiations in reserved rooms at the Leamington Hotel in downtown Oakland.

Neither side would reveal the location of last night's talks, and balked at giving details of the agenda.

It could be a thaw in the month old imbroglio that has hobbled county services and stymied the annual racing meet.

But even an instant settlement in the strike would not open the race track immediately.

Fairgrounds employees have told The Times that the grandstands would need at least a full day's work to prepare for racing, and that the track itself would require preparation.

In all, it would take a day or two to bring the track up to par for the remainder of the meet.

The fair board may get some wind in their sails today when superior court judge Phillips resumes hearings for an injunction against the strikers.

Judge Phillips listened to arguments for more than an hour late yesterday afternoon before taking the case under advisement.

Attorneys for the union claim the issue is under the jurisdiction of the National Labor Relations Board and outside the scope of the superior courts.

But John E. Cantwell, a private attorney hired by the fair board, simply claims it is an illegal strike.

Adding weight to Cantwell's argument, Presiding Superior Court Judge Robert K. Barber called the strike illegal yesterday morning when he denied a union motion to grant scheduled vacation and holiday pay to 11 striking employees.

Attorneys for the union sued the county last week demanding pay for holidays that had been scheduled before the strike began June 2.

The attorneys argued that strikers would lose their "floating holidays" and suffer undue hardship if vacations were not granted.

Judge Barber, who issued a temporary restraining order against the county fair pickets two weeks ago, is the first official outside county government to call the strike illegal.

County counsel Richard Moore, who has not represented the fair board in its dispute, claims all strikes by public employees are illegal. He has cited case law and the State Supreme Court's refusal to review lower appellate court decisions.

Judge Barber is scheduled to hear arguments Wednesday by six fairgrounds' pickets who have been ordered to show cause on possible contempt of court citations.

An adverse ruling by Judge Phillips along with contempt citations by Judge Barber could swing the strike from the stalemate it has enjoyed for the past three weeks.

Parimutuel clerks halted at Fair gate

PLEASANTON — Parimutuel clerks attempted to gain entrance to the County Fairgrounds and race track Monday morning but were turned away by Fair management, as the first day of racing was cancelled.

Today's Fair racing program has also been cancelled and, though race officials continue to take entries on a 48-hour headway, Wednesday's card is doubtful.

Lee Hall, Fair Association secretary-manager, said at least a dozen persons claiming to be parimutuel clerks attempted to sign-in for work Monday morning but were turned away after the prevailing strike situation was explained.

Others, allegedly showing their mutuel clerk license, were turned away. An observer said some used regular admission passes to get into the Fairgrounds.

A dozen purportedly got into the grandstand area through an open side gate and allege that equipment was not installed.

They initially claimed that their unions had not received word of Monday's program being called off.

One large truck, bearing an American Totalisator emblem on the side, was observed being unloaded at a grandstand dock.

At last year's race meeting, the daily parimutuel handle averaged almost $1 million per day.

With the temperature soaring over 100 degrees for the second straight day and racing off, crowds at the Fair dwindled.

Peter Bailey, assistant manager, reported a total attendance of 11,757 on opening day Sunday — down 37 per cent from last year's opening day.

Total attendance for opening day in 1975 was 18,785.

Other opening day crowd counts were 18,082 in 1974, 20,037 in 1973 and 21,182 in 1972.

Yesterday's attendance was also far down from last year's second-day count of 17,706. In '74, the second day count was 18,806.

Because of the extreme heat, and possibly because of the doubt created by the county employees strike, the turnout for the parade Sunday was far below previous years.

Estimate for the parade was 8,000. In previous years, the attendance has soared to 15 and 20,000.

Muirwood residents want traffic aids

PLEASANTON — A petition signed by 486 residents called on the city council last night to slow down traffic near Muirwood Park.

The corner of Hillside and Muirwood Drive is especially dangerous, said a spokesman.

He called for a three-way stop on Muirwood, Springdale and Highland Oaks Drive, yellow reflectors on Muirwood Drive to Las Positas Boulevard, and a 15 mph speed limit in the park area along Muirwood Drive.

The spokesman said that a radar check of the vicinity showed a high percentage of motorists traveling over the speed limit.

The council asked for a staff report and promised to deal with it at the council meeting July 26.

On another item, the council witnessed a long debate over whether Chris Berattis should be allowed a conditional use permit for a parking lot next to his proposed neighborhood shopping center at Hopyard and Valley Avenue.

Neighbors objected mainly to a driveway near their backyards which they felt would bring big trucks near their lot lines prior to unloading at the supermarket planned for the center.

Councilman Ken Mercer offered a compromise. He suggested that Berattis increase a proposed 10-foot landscaping buffer to 29 feet at the edge of the property, and pick up the lost 24 parking spaces by shaving a little off the supermarket and small shops he plans to put in.

This was acceptable to Berattis, but as of press time last night, the objecting residents had caucused and planned to ask for a two week continuance so they could poll all neighbors on Mercer's suggested compromise.

One spokesman reported that many of the residents present at the council meeting did favor the proposal.

Councilman William Herlihy objected to the whole process Berattis was asking.

He said Berattis is trying to create a bigger center than he has zoning for by coopting the one-acre public and institutional use for the shopping center parking lot.

Mayor Robert Philcox said it probably is a bad zoning procedure, but what really counts is whether the neighbors are satisfied with the solution.

However, a representative of the Alpha Beta Center across the street from Berattis' proposal said that the original intent was to confine Berattis to a 3.5 acre commercial center, not the nearly five acres the conditional use permit for the parking lot would give him.

Smog alert lifted as winds rise

An air quality alert and health advisory for the Livermore Valley in effect yesterday has been lifted today, according to a spokesperson for the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District (BAAPCD).

An air quality alert had been in effect yesterday for nine Bay Area counties, including the southern portions of Alameda and Contra Costa counties.

In addition, a health advisory had been issued for certain parts of the Bay Area, including the Livermore Valley.

There are three stages of notification for deteriorated air quality. The warning issued yesterday was only the first stage. Under the alert conditions, people are requested to curtail automobile driving as much as possible.

In health advisory conditions persons, especially those with respiratory problems, are advised to limit physical exercise.

"Under a health advisory," a spokesperson said, "don't ride a ten-speed bike up a hill if you can avoid it."

BART strike will ding feeder buses

Alameda County Bureau
OAKLAND — A threatened strike by more than 1,500 Bay Area Rapid Transit employees will curtail express bus service into the valley, a BART spokesman said yesterday.

United Public Employees Union local 390 and the Amalgamated Transit Union local 1555 have voted to strike if negotiations with the three-county transit system fail.

AC Transit operates the valley's feeder bus service under a contract with BART, and if BART stops running, so will the buses.

The 1,100 members of local 390, clerical, maintenance and professional personnel, already have voted to strike and Friday received sanction from the Alameda County Central Labor Council.

Another 450 station agents and train attendants, members of local 1555, also have voted to strike and received the CLC sanction.

Their contracts expire at midnight, Wednesday.

Union leaders and BART management have agreed to meet "non-stop" through July 1 to avoid a Thursday walkout, a union representative said yesterday. But the unions will not operate without a contract.

Pay for members of local 390 ranges from $6.61 per hour for utility workers to $9.08 an hour for top maintenance personnel.

Station agents and train attendants earn $8.31 per hour, including a 36-cent cost of living adjustment for the past quarter.

Both sides are silent on the offers and counter offers, but a union spokesman Saturday reported "some progress" on non-economic issues since talks began in early May.

BART service was shut down three years ago when workers walked off the job for a month in a pay dispute.

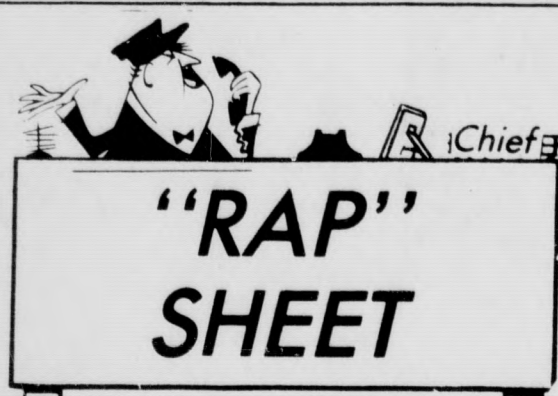

Union officials lashed out at a legislative report by State financial analyst A. Alan Post last week, claiming he was adding fuel to the fire.

"Post's statement that train operators make $21,000 a year is a total fabrication," said local 1555 president Hank White.

Train operators and station attendants make $17,000 per year working a 40-hour week, he said.

Even a quick end to the 28-day-old walkout won't open the starting gates immediately.

Suspect arrested in child abuse, resisting arrest case

LIVERMORE — A 29-year-old Livermore man suspected of child abuse was arrested after swinging at officers and resisting arrest, police reported yesterday.

According to reports, residents in the 600 block of North Livermore Avenue reported a young girl screaming and banging on the front door of a nearby house about 10:45 p.m. Saturday. Police arrived and found the two-year-old wearing only panties, with muddy feet and crying.

Attempts at arousing anyone in the house failed, so police walked into the residence and discovered a nude man sleeping inside. When awakened, the man allegedly picked the girl up and threw her across the room onto a bed and began beating her, police said.

Officers warned the man to stop or he would be arrested, and he refused. Police grabbed the suspect, and he allegedly took a swing at officer Vic Simard. Officers wrestled with the man, and after subduing and handcuffing him, took him to city jail for booking.

The young girl and another child in the house were taken to Valley Memorial Hospital for observation, where doctors said there appeared to be no signs of physical abuse, police said.

The home was described by police as having dirt over the entire front room floor, dirtied sheets on the children's beds, and a cat's litter box full of defecation on the floor. Booked on suspicion of child abuse and resisting police was Kennedy Alan Butler of 690 North Livermore Ave.

Pilot escapes injury in biplane crash

LIVERMORE — A 77-year-old Atherton man escaped serious injury Sunday after his biplane, a replica of a 1915 craft, crashed near Meadowlark Field in Livermore.

Sheriff's deputies report that the pilot, Walter J. Addems, had just taken off and was in the air five to ten minutes when the plane's engine quit. Addems reportedly tried to land in a plowed field next to the Greenville Road airstrip, cleared a fence but struck a ditch which sent the plane end over end.

Deputies said Addems was not seriously injured. The air strip and adjacent field are owned by James Nissen, a member of the Valley Memorial Hospital Board of Directors.

Barn fire believed set by arsonists

LIVERMORE — An empty barn on East Avenue between Madison and Almond was destroyed by flames in a fire believed intentionally set, a Sheriff's department spokesman reported.

The barn, located on property owned by Amling - Devor Nursery, was engulfed by the time Livermore City and Alameda County firefighters arrived. No persons were reported injured in the blaze.

Livermore Fire Department Chief Jack Beard said he detected the odor of coal oil at the scene. This fact, coupled with the speed with which the barn was lost in flame, gives rise to the possibility of arson, officials said.

Two cars and a pick-up truck were spotted near the scene by Livermore Fire Department prevention officer David O'Connor. The vehicles' license numbers are being checked for ownership.

Kilkare Road residence hit by burglars

SUNOL — Burglars entered a Kilkare Road residence Friday afternoon and stole more than $1,200 in guns and stereo equipment, the Sheriff's department reported.

Thomas McLoughlin returned home and discovered the burglary about 4:30 p.m. Entrance was made through an unlocked rear door, deputies said.

Missing items include a Teac reel to reel tape deck, two Sansui speakers, headphones, Sansui amplifier, Remington and Stevens brand shotguns, and two antique 10-gauge shotguns. Total value of the loss is listed at $1,260.

There are no clues in the theft.

New homes in Val Vista damaged by vandals

PLEASANTON — Nine of 11 homes under construction in the Val Vista tract at Herrin and Mason had all their windows and sliding glass doors shattered by rock-throwing vandals over the weekend.

Officer Hank Perry discovered the vandalism while on routine patrol but saw no possible suspects. Rocks and cement chunks were used in the attack, it was reported.

There are no clues in the case.

Couple sees burglars flee with carpet

PLEASANTON — A Dublin couple staying in a Golden Road apartment awoke Sunday morning to see a pick-up truck drive away with their carpet and pole stretcher worth $450.

James Holden and his wife told police they heard noises outside their apartment about 3:45 a.m. Sunday. They looked out to see a blue and white pick-up drive towards the downtown with the couple's carpet in the truck bed.

Missing items include a low shag two-tone orange 12 by 50 foot carpet valued at $300, and a pole stretcher worth $150.

Police are searching for the truck and its occupants.

Arson suspected in Alpha Beta fire

LIVERMORE — Investigators say arson was the cause of a fire that sent 50-foot flames up the rear wall of the Alpha Beta store on Railroad Avenue early Saturday.

Police said that wooden boxes, pallets and cardboard boxes on the loading dock were intentionally set afire. The rear wall received minor paint damage, but no injuries were reported.

Fire department investigators are continuing to look into the incident.

Niles Canyon Road home burglarized

SUNOL — Burglars pried open a rear window to Peter Shandera's Niles Canyon Road home and took $630 in valuables over the weekend, deputies report.

Missing items include a SoundDesign portable stereo worth $100, a Canex movie camera valued at $500, and miscellaneous jewelry.

There is a big pent - up market for housing in all price ranges in the Bay Area and it will continue because the federal government doesn't know how to predict the demand, said a developer.

There really are two arms of the federal government doing the predicting and they contradict each other, he said.

One arm, the department of Housing and Urban Development, says there is a need for 60,000 housing starts each year. It bases the prediction on the number of new household formations each year.

But the Environmental Protection Agency says

there is a need for only 20,000 new housing starts each year, said the builder. EPA bases its prediction on the annual growth rate, a complicated formula which takes into account the slowed birth rate.

Unfortunately today's lower birth rate won't have any impact on household formation for another 20 years, said the developer. It's a good example, he thinks, of bad logic.

Household formation is by far the better predictor of true housing needs because it takes new lifestyles into account, said the builder. There are more senior citizens today buying condominiums, more adults remaining single, yet they too are forming households. You can't base housing needs on the birth rate anymore, said the developer.

"EPA has taken it over. Unfortunately they haven't hired a knowledgeable person. HUD doesn't have one housing industry person participating (in a policy-making position). If you operate in a vacuum and never find out the facts, you hear what you want to hear.

"If EPA is going to say that you are going to grow only so much, it should coordinate figures with HUD. They should argue out who is right before they confuse the public. It ruins the credibility of the federal government. One agency says 60,000 new housing starts are needed, another says 20,000. Who is right?"

Tentative budget ready

The Amador Valley Joint High School District's $8.9 million tentative budget will be up for adoption at tonight's special board meeting.

Trustees convene at 8 p.m. in the District Educational Center, 123 Main St., Pleasanton.

The Pleasanton Joint School District's tentative budget will be up for adoption on Wednesday night.

Amador board members will have several other items to act upon at tonight's meeting.

Included are approval of a resolution giving notice to contractors for football field bleachers at Foothill High and a similar resolution, also giving notice to contractors for football field lighting at Foothill.

Lighting and bleachers for the Foothill Road field purportedly would be underwritten by the Foothill Boosters Club.

Plans and specifications for the outdoor facilities at Foothill will be covered by community service tax funds. Amador trustees voted a couple of months ago to allot $50,000 of the funds to the project.

When completed, Foothill would be the third school in the district to gain lights for its football field.

Trustees will also take action to award bids on athletic and physical education equipment.

Amador's tentative budget reflects prospective cuts in several areas. What services will be slashed have not been determined though fir first and second priority lists were advanced at last week's trustees meeting.

Among the services considered for cutting are three buses for student transportation to and from Amador and Dublin High School (which would make most students at those schools walkers), freshmen athletics, district support for certain extracurricular activities, and towel service.

Under a recalculated budget, including revisions and additions, the district has allotted $3.9 million to teachers' salaries of the $8.9 million in expenditures.

Classified salaries will total $1.1 million and employee benefits, both certified and classified, $864,528.

A total of $550,208 of the study budget for 1976-77 is directed to books, supplies and equipment replacement.

As in past years, approximately 80 per cent of the total budget goes to salaries and benefits.

In spite of the advice given by his father that show business is "lousy, horrible business for anybody to get into," Spike Jones, Jr. is "very entertainment oriented."

"It wasn't a question of talent," says Spike about his father's feelings in going into the entertainment world, it was he just felt why go through all that. Spike, Sr. wanted his son to become an attorney or doctor.

When he was a sophomore in high school, Spike found himself leaving school to take over his father's business in Las Vegas and "loving every moment of it." This lasted four weeks fulfilling the contracts of his father's upon his father's death from emphysema.

After the four months, Spike's mother "hustled him back to school to finish his high school education and go to college."

His two years in college found him studying history, English, speech and music. "All I did while in school," he admits, "was to go over my dad's act from top to bottom. That act was a 45-minute presentation and was equivalent to one class period," he stated laughingly. "This got me through two years and then I had to quit and go into show business. If you feel you have to do something," he said, "you just have to get out and do it."

He admits his father's name helped him in his start, but went on to state that, "I really didn't have the privilege of failure. I was going strictly by the book. In order to improve on one's self," he said, "no matter what profession one is in, you have to make mistakes in order to get better."

According to Spike, his mother neither encouraged nor discouraged him from going into the entertainment field. "She did not encourage me," he said, "mainly because there were so many problems after my father died. However, when I decided to go into the business, she let me take my own course."

Although owning a restaurant in Los Angeles (Gatsby's) Spike's mother tries to catch his act as often as she can. "The restaurant keeps her pretty well tied down," he said, "and leaves little time for traveling."

Spike does not perform his act in Los Angeles. This is because, "There just aren't many night clubs available in Los Angeles that have the facilities for handling my kind of act," he reported. "Most of your clubs are in New York, Chicago and San Francisco." He has not appeared in San Francisco, but has spent a lot of time in Chicago.

This eager 27 year old doesn't let the fact that there are no night clubs in the southern area that can handle his act stop him. He is in the process of opening up his own spot, "Zanies," on the Sunset Strip in Hollywood. "It's going to be a neat, crazy place with special effects," he said.

Sitting through college and re-doing his father's act, in his head let Spike put together an act of all new material, which led to hiring a band and hitting the club circuit.

His act is geared for those who remember his father's act and come to see if his act resembles his father and bring their children with them. "We play to no set age group," he said. "Those who come to see me to see if I am doing what my father did, are not disappointed in my act nor are their children who come with them as our act is full of surprises for all ages."

Spike is very glad that his father kept all his recordings as well as his movies as he now has them in his possession.

Although married for three years, the eager entertainer does not want to start a family, "just yet," as he wants to get involved in a comedy show for television which can go nationwide.

Spike's wife will be joining him this evening at his performance in the amphitheater at the Alameda County Fairgrounds. His act is at 7 and 9 p.m. There is no charge to get into the amphitheater for the show.

Mori says President may pardon 'Rose'

Speculation is growing that President Ford will sign a full pardon for Iva Toguri D'Aquino — Tokyo Rose — by July 4, D'Aquino's birthday. Assemblyman Floyd Mori has reported.

Mori has been the prime mover behind a bill in the California Legislature to call on Ford to pardon the Los Angeles-born D'Aquino. Assembly Joint Resolution No. 77 calls on Ford to give full and unconditional pardon to D'Aquino "who may have been unjustly accused, tried and convicted for treason as a mythical 'Tokyo Rose,' to redeem her name and restore her American citizenship."

"There is now overwhelming evidence that the U.S. Government built the case against her on lies, blunders and half-truths during the post-war hysteria," said Mori in a press release last week. "In fact, she may have even been a patriotic heroine who constantly badgered the Japanese about their role in the war and watered down the scripts she was forced to read over the radio waves."

Mori told The Times that most of the mail he has received about the resolution has been favorable. There have been a few opponents, mostly people who had relatives fighting in the South Pacific during the war.

But on the whole, sentiment is strongly supportive of her, said Mori. "People are beginning to find out that there was never one Tokyo Rose, but at least a dozen women who spoke on Japanese radio. She was the only one who was prosecuted. The three Allied POW officers who wrote the scripts and chose D'Aquino to read them never were prosecuted," said the Assemblyman.

D'Aquino did not invent the term Tokyo Rose — it was applied by the American servicemen who listened to her in the South Pacific. Other women who did the broadcasts also were called Tokyo Rose, but none was prosecuted. They included six Japanese-Americans, one white American, a Japanese Canadian, a Japanese Briton, a Swiss, a Japanese, and a woman with a Japanese surname whose nationality was unknown.

During her stay at Radio Tokyo, Iva D'Aquino risked her life by smuggling extra food, clothing, blankets, vitamins and medicine to American POW's.

She was born in Los Angeles July 4, 1916, and grew up in the Los Angeles area. She became an accomplished pianist, skilled typist, and was graduated from UCLA in June, 1941, with a bachelor's degree in zoology.

Everything but bang in parks' Fourth

There will be lots to do in East Bay Regional Parks over the Fourth of July weekend — but fireworks won't be one of them.

Explosives are strictly banned, especially this year because of critical fire danger. That includes firecrackers, sparklers and anything else that might throw off a spark.

Park District naturalists remind park visitors that besides the terrible damage that can be done to parklands by fires, which are invariably started by careless humans, there are thousands of all kinds of wild animals that have thrived in the protected parklands for decades and are always the blameless victims when their "homelands" burn out.

Following are some things to do in the regional parks that dot Alameda and Contra Costa Counties:

HIKING: Nearly 400 miles of trails, some in remote areas although only minutes away from East Bay cities, beckon hikers and horsemen. Generally, a trail for hikers is also a trail for horses, though riders are restricted from beaches and turf areas, botanical preserves, Coyote Hills (Fremont), Lake Temescal (Oakland) and Kennedy Grove.

RIDING: Most hiking trails are also suitable for horses. Rental stables include: Anthony Chabot Equestrian Center on Skyline Boulevard, Oakland; Grizzly Peak Stables, off the south end of Tilden; the Buckeye Ranch, Lafayette, near Briones Regional Park; and Las Trampas Stables, San Ramon, near Las Trampas Regional Wilderness.

BICYCLING: The park district's fast-growing system of bike trails is engineered as to grade and banking. It is illegal to use them for motorcycling.

Here are some bike trails: The Alameda Creek Trail, winding for 12 miles from the south of Niles Canyon through Coyote Hills to San Francisco Bay (plus a 3.1-mile loop in Coyote Hills); 5.7-mile Nimitz Way with dazzling views in all directions along the Pacific coastal range in Tilden and Wildcat Canyon Regional Parks, beginning from Inspiration Point in Tilden; Point Pinole Regional Shoreline, Richmond, 2.2-mile trail plus riding on park roads (since no cars are allowed in the big park, with four miles of shoreline) beginning from the parking lot on the Giant Highway; and Lake Chabot Trail of 4.6 miles, running from Sylvan Circle in San Leandro across lands of East Bay Municipal Utilities District and then along Lake Chabot.

An addition to the system, a portion of the Lafayette-Moraga Trail, will be dedicated and opened Saturday.

SWIMMING: Nine parks have swimming areas. Extra lifeguards and also extra park police will be on hand this weekend to make sure nobody goes swimming in dangerous areas. Lifeguards come on duty at 11 a.m. at: Lake Anza in Tilden Park (Berkeley); Roberts Pool in Roberts Regional Recreation Area (Oakland); Contra Loma Regional Park (Antioch); Lake Temescal (Oakland); Don Castro (Castro Valley); Shadow Cliffs (Pleasanton) and Cull Canyon (Castro Valley).

You can swim any time, without a lifeguard, at three-mile Robert Crown Memorial State Beach, Alameda, and in five-mile-long Del Valle Lake south of Livermore.

Admission to the parks varies from free to $1.50.

FISHING: Fish will be planted in the following lakes: Lake Chabot, Contra Loma, Cull Canyon, Shadow Cliffs, Temescal and Anza.

For Bay fishing, combined with beachcombing, try Point Pinole, Point Isabel, Robert Crown and San Leandro Bay.

BOATING: Lake Chabot, Contra Loma, Cull, Del Valle, Don Castro and Shadow Cliffs have boats for rent and launches for privately owned craft.

CAMPING: Friday night, campers are expected to begin arriving at first-come, first-served overnight camping spots at Del Valle (110 units), Las Cumbres above Lake Chabot in Anthony Chabot Park (73 units); and Sunol Regional Wilderness (9 units).

NATURE PROGRAMS: Walks to see the birds and ponds of midsummer will be led by Park District naturalists at 8:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m., Saturday, July 3.

In Tilden Nature Area, starting from the Environmental Education Center at Berkeley's big regional park.

At Coyote Hills, Fremont, visitors will be meeting naturalists at the park entrance on Patterson Ranch Road at 2 p.m. Saturday to go to the site of an Indian village, used for more than 2,000 years. Visitors will be able to sit in the archaeological excavation and hear the story of the Ohlone Indians.

On Sunday at Coyote Hills, an Independence Day Fair celebration for families will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Displays and demonstrations of old-time skills at the Visitors' Center show how we can increase our own independence. Bring a picnic lunch.

Wildcat Canyon Regional Park, Richmond, will be the site of a nature walk Sunday morning. Meet the naturalist at 9 a.m. at the Wildcat Canyon Parkway entrance, off U.S. Highway 80—and bring lunch. Sunday afternoon at 2:30, a nature walk will show visitors how plants and animals affect water quality. The stroll leaves from the Environmental Education Center in Tilden Park, Berkeley.

Also at Tilden, on weekends all year round, there are demonstrations in the center with snakes, frogs, spiders, mites and other live creatures at 11 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. The center is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily except Mondays.

OTHER ENJOYMENTS: Botanic Garden of Native California Plants, Tilden; archery ranges at Briones, Anthony Chabot, Redwood, Sunol and Tilden; golf at Willow Park, Anthony Chabot, and Tilden; marksmanship range, Anthony Chabot; little farm, pony rides, merry-go-round, miniature steam railway, Tilden; baseball diamonds, Redwood, Tilden, Point Pinole, Roberts.

Further information on EBRPD parks is available from headquarters, 11500 Skyline Blvd., Oakland 94619; telephone 531-9300.

Only cool can open Del Valle

Unless cool temperatures and fog change conditions in the Valley, Del Valle Regional Park south of Livermore will continue to be closed because of critical fire danger.

Rangers closed the park just before noon yesterday, sending visitors home when they determined that another day of heat and low humidity had produced tinderbox conditions in the sprawling recreation area. No smoking or fires had been allowed in the park since last week.

In addition, Sunol is continuing to be closed because of the fire danger. Shadow Cliffs remains open (parking 75 cents until 5 p.m.) if you're wondering where to go to cool off.

Five valley grads from U.C.S.B.

Five valley students were among 3,500 candidates for degrees at commencement ceremonies held recently at the University of California at Santa Barbara.

This was the largest class in UCSB's history and included 2,987 candidates for the bachelor's degree, 446 master's and 165 Ph.D. degrees representing more than 50 fields of study.

Local graduates were Mary Kathleen Echer, sociology, Pleasanton; Jack Edward Barnes, Jr., English; Janet Gay Erickson, speech and hearing; Bradley Robert Larson, law and society, all Livermore; Sandra Lee Anderson, zoology, Dublin.

School building starts under lease program

DANVILLE — In September, taxpayers will be able to see the concrete results of a lease-purchase program they approved over a year ago for the San Ramon Valley Unified School District.

In about three months, construction of the new Pine Valley Intermediate School and additions and renovations to San Ramon and California high schools will begin.

The new buildings are expected to be ready for students in September, 1977.

Bids totaling $8,731,118 for construction have been awarded by the school district.

Trustees approved a

Newton Mumper

LIVERMORE — Marine Corporal Newton C. Mumper, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Mumper of 660 Emerald St., has been promoted to his present rank while serving with the 2nd Marine Division at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

A former student of Granada High School, he joined the Marine Corps in January, 1973.

20-year loan for the new lease-purchase bond monies which is estimated to save the district nearly $3.5 million.

The board could have opted for a 30-year loan with a lower tax payoff, 34.9 cents versus 37.9 for the 20-year loan.

But, paying the debt off 10 years earlier will result in an overall savings to the district.

During the 1975-76 fiscal year, the school district levied a 28 cent tax rate per $100 of assessed valuation which raised about $617,000.

This paid for architectural services, preliminary surveys and tests and fees required by the state.

Growth control o.k. in San Jose

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today let stand a San Jose, Calif., ordinance described as a test of the power of cities to control their growth by restricting new residential development.

The court let stand over a dissent by Justice William J. Brennan Jr. a decision of the California Supreme Court upholding an ordinance approved by San Jose voters in 1973.

The ordinance requires a super-majority of five votes on the seven-member city council to zone or rezone property for residential use if a school district protests the decision.

It also imposed a two-year zoning freeze, later extended through Dec. 15, 1975, and called for a two-year study of "how all further residential developments can be allowed to take place only with insurance that all necessary community facilities will be provided."

In his dissent, Brennan said he wanted to hear arguments on the issue before reaching a decision. The other justices said the case did not present a substantial federal question.

The Builders Association of Santa Clara-Santa Cruz Counties challenged the ordinance as part of "a strategy by San Jose to secure lower tax rates for its present residents at the expense both of its future residents and of citizens of other parts of the Bay Area."

San Jose, a city of 500,000 persons, is at the southern end of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay area. It is California's fourth largest city and is the largest city to have enacted a growth-control ordinance.

Several other communities in Northern California have enacted such ordinances or are considering them. The result, said the builders association, is "Balkanization" of the area.

"People who are excluded from one locality are forced into other localities ... One community's solution becomes another community's problem," the association's attorneys told the high court.

They argued that the ordinance infringes the right to travel as well as the constitutional guarantees of due process and equal protection of the laws.

Evelyn Bell judges gladiolus in the professional floriculture exhibits.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Plummer and director Harold Moller enjoy a garden scene created by Ron Halverson of Pleasanton.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pleich, director and chairman of the Floriculture Department, chat with Larry Billings, a professional floriculture exhibitor at the Fair.

PLEASANTON — The fragrance of damp earth and fresh flowers filled the warm night as Valley residents gathered for the third annual preview of the Alameda County Fair's photography, art and garden exhibits on Saturday night.

Award winners were announced, including the winner of the first in a series of annual purchase awards. This year, William Fala's dramatic painting of a chain gang won the honor.

The affair was a benefit staged by the local Mulberry branch of the Children's Hospital auxiliary. Champagne and hors d'oeuvres were served to make the evening complete.

For Tuesday, June 29, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Avoid seeking financial favors from persons you know on a purely social basis. They may help from a sense of obligation, but they won't like it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be careful today lest you say something unthinkingly that might hurt another, particularly a family member. It'll be hard to make amends.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It isn't like you to make excuses, but that's just what you might try to do today. If you're in error, 'less up.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) There's a good possibility you could be penny-wise and pound-foolish today. Ask first if something will last, not how much it costs.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your inner uncertainty dilutes your leadership qualities today. Others could sense this and be reluctant to follow as readily as usual.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 2) The ends do not justify the means today. Don't use tactics that others can criticize you for. Some would welcome the opportunity.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't be inconsiderate of close friends today. You'll offend very quickly if you renege on your share of the work or the check.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Achieving your goals is important, but you'll find the quest can lose its luster if you advance your cause by downgrading another.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll have small patience for those not in full accord with your ideas, though their reasons are valid.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You may run into a problem today with one with whom you share an interest. Opinions will differ. The results could be unproductive.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Difficult decisions boggle your mind today. Seek the advice of a trusted counselor.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't volunteer help with a job you're not familiar with. There could be expensive tools or material you could accidentally ruin.

June 29, 1976

The rewards for your efforts this year may pay off more slowly than you anticipated. Don't be discouraged. Later, you'll pick up momentum swiftly.

Opening lead — 4 ♣

By Oswald & James Jacoby

One principle of defensive play that Hal Sims stressed was that you should avoid scatter-gun plays. In other words, if you started one suit you should tend to keep on with it.

He felt that any time you broke a new suit you were likely to be giving a trick away.

Not that Hal was too stubborn to violate his own rules. He sat West and made his normal opening lead of the four of clubs. Fourth best of a long suit was and always will be a standard lead against notrump.

South put his ace of clubs on East's 10 and led the 10 of diamonds. Hal ducked but had to win the next diamond.

Then he thought for a moment and planked down his ace of spades. East signalled with the nine. Hal led his last spade and declarer was down two.

As Hal pointed out later his spade lead might have cost a trick, but the only chance to defeat the contract would be to find East with those good spades.

Ask the Jacobys

An Ontario reader wants to know what we think of the idea of opening third rather than fourth best from a long suit.

The idea has some merit, but one great weakness. There are too many occasions such as a holding of Q 10 8 4 when you need to have that eight spot in your hand later.

On Sports

The tangled subculture of bars, barber shops and car dealers who commonly sponsor recreation softball leagues is seldom invaded.

So, it's easy to imagine the hilarity when the roll was called at the pre-season meeting for the San Francisco Class C Fast Pitch League 25 years ago: "Regal Pale... Pacific Iron Works...Sophies Bar (19th and Valencia)...Romanoff Caviar..." Romanoff Caviar!

"The place broke up when they called us," recalls Santa Clara County Municipal Court Judge Ed Soyen, who played second base for the team. Unfortunately everyone was still laughing three years later after the Cavs had gone winless during the 1951, '52 AND '53 seasons.

"After the Mets came into the National League, I often thought we were some sort of omen," Soyen continued.

The team was born of bravado one lunch hour when a group of young attorneys sat around reliving their days as high school or college players.

Hard shirt to fill

Mike Khourie, now a partner in a high-powered San Francisco firm, decided it was put up or shut up time and entered the bunch in the league. The reaction of his buddies at the bar was a predictable, "You did what?"

The next step was finding a sponsor. Borah Hansen, another lawyer still practicing in San Francisco, contacted his family, which owned the nation's largest caviar importing firm and the club was on its way.

Resigning themselves to actually playing the game, the group, fortified memories of collegiate careers at varied institutions as Harvard and Ohio State and pre-game dinners at the Buena Vista on Hyde St. embarked on a five-game evaluation and practice schedule.

With Bob Rosburg, the future pro who had just come off a runner-up finish to Ken Venturi in the Northern California Golf Association Amateur championships, on the mound, Romanoff went undefeated.

From their it was all downhill. "If it could be done, we did it," Soyen said, recalling the unbelievable series of mishaps that led to the three winless regular seasons.

"Outfielders ran into each other and we once put two men on third," he continued. "When we had the two guys on third, the umpire sat down on home plate, took off his mask and almost died laughing."

Another memorable moment came when Khourie scooped up a grounder at short, flipped to Soyen at second for one who gunned it over to first for a textbook execution of a double play. One problem: the runners were on second and third at the time.

Heading into the final game of their first season, the Cavs had an opportunity to play the spoiler's role, facing the first place team while the second place team was idle.

"All the guys on the second place team showed up," Soyen recalled. "They came up to us and told us, 'Youse guys gotta do it fer us. Wur countin' on ya.'"

"So we scored nine runs right off the bat and the Pacific Iron Workers are going bananas," he said. "Then we suddenly discovered what was happening and lost 11-9."

"The second place team left and never talked to us again."

Scoyen has entertained light-hearted speculation that Rosburg's successful golf career was nonetheless hampered by the memories of the Romanoff fielders.

"I always thought that the reason Bob was a shaky putter was that his nerves were shot from pitching in front of our defense," he explained. Rosburg, a control pitcher who had played hardball at Stanford, needed the non-existent defense more than a power pitcher might have.

Yet the reverse was also true. When Rosburg was unable to play one Monday, Romanoff scrounged up a ringer who could've, and very well might have, been playing Class A ball.

The practice of getting around the fixed-roster set-up was, as it is now, quite common. "There was always a guy named Joe Doakes who never looked the same from one week to the next," Soyen said.

Romanoff's ringer of the week possessed a blazing riser that eluded catcher Bob Cardinal time and time again. The plethora of passed balls, combined with the infield and outfielders' usual malaprops infuriated the impatient windmill.

"About the sixth inning, he just left," Soyen laughed.

The judge himself was involved in a scrape with league authorities and drew a week's suspension for contempt of umpire.

On an attempted bunt, Soyen got tangled up with the catcher and was called for interference. Ired by the call, the exact opposite of the controversial Ed Armsbrister - Carlton Fisk play in the 1976 World Series, he, perhaps taking a cue from Eddie Stan-ky, kicked dirt on the umpire.

Despite the exotic array of weekly disasters, no one ever suggested disbanding the squad. The Cavs even resisted the temptation to drop to Class D.

"It was a matter of pride," Soyen says. "We were deadly serious. We'd just say, that was last week, next week we'll get 'em."

"Besides, everyone got a $25 jar of caviar at the end of each season — we weren't going to pass that up."

The club finally disbanded when Khourie bent over to field a grounder and didn't straighten up for three weeks.

But while the team lasted, Romanoff Caviar was a dedicated bunch. Players commuted from the Peninsula and Marin County and often stayed after the games for post game strategy sessions at corner bars near Funston Park.

"I think we shook up quite a few regulars — 14 guys walking in in spikes and baseball uniforms," Soyen remembered.

Happily, the team members fared better in their chosen professions than they did on the diamond.

Two players, Soyen and Michael Martin, be-

Local teams invade Canada

Five local teams will be invading Canada on Thursday to participate in the Calgary Girls Soccer Invitational which will be held the weekend of July 3-4 in Calgary.

The tourney, in its first year, will be an annual gathering of top teams from California, Oregon and Canada.

The team members have been busy raising money for the trip for many weeks and, as San Ramon Superior coach Jean Boehm says, "The girls have tackled this problem with the same energy they exhibited during the soccer season." And if that statement is true, the clubs will be traveling first class as their "energy" gave them a combined record of 104-7 for the season.

California's only under-12 representative will be Gale Dolsby's Pleasanton United squad. The team will be playing the Edmonton Airtwoods, the Calgary Sarcees and the Calgary Brentwoods. If they reach the finals, they will be pitting their best against one of the teams from Oregon or Canada.

Pleasanton United's record indicates an unusually good chance at the tourney title as the team has taken many tournament championships in the past year, including the Fresno Golden State Invitational and the Livermore Girls Invitational.

Winners of the 1975 State Cup Tournament, they reached the finals of this year's Cup action but lost to the San Jose Bobcats 1-0 on a disputed penalty kick. This year's record for the District III champions totaled a whopping 19 wins with two losses and two ties.

Members of the team include goalie Konnie Hobbs, fullbacks Denise Winter, Lori Estes, Karrie Kent and Maria Merucci. Halfbacks include Regan Dolsby, Denise Stennette, Sherril Hamilton, Katie Garrigan, Karen Broderick and the forwards are Jamie McEntee, Cheryl Abreu, Cheryl Young, Tracy Spence, Lezlie Lortz, and Shannon Holleman.

In the under-14 bracket, Chuck Gilliam's Pleasanton United club will be vying for the tourney crown. The squad has a 19-0-1 season record along with three tourney titles and the State Cup crown. The under-14's have scored 78 goals while allowing only six, and goalie Maria Pompilio carries a .028 goal-per-game average to boost the Pleasanton defense.

Team members are fullbacks Lori Fleming, Celeste Bowe, Debbie Stromer, Angela Carlos and Lori Gilliam. Halfbacks include Julie Fernandez, Lisa Lovell, Julie Bigger, Kristy Crow and forwards Kim Fruzzetti, Stacey Smiley, Lisa Thomas, Kim Valin, Mary Hansen and Ann Peterson complete the squad.

The Livermore Firecrackers are another under-14 group which will be competing, but no information was available.

The under-16 Pleasanton Patriots will be the only U.S. team in their age group as the State Cup champions will be facing teams from Saskatchewan, Edmonton and Calgary. The club has taken three tournament titles this year, including the Fresno and Livermore Invitionals and the Santa Rosa Washington Invitational.

The Patriots have compiled an impressive 25-1-2 overall mark this year, losing only to the older San Ramon Superior squad. Defense should prove to be the Pats' biggest asset as they have amassed a total of 118 goals while allowing a mere 24 by opponents. Although the Patriots will be hurt by the loss of Janet Martin and Gina Thomas due to injuries, coach Judy Bricker says the girls are "nervous but confident" for the games ahead.

Members of the District III championship team include goalie Terri Pompilio, halfbacks Kris Brittain, Darcy Hill, Sheryl Withoft, Jayne Kuhns and Kelly McCole. Forwards are Jamie Watson, Lynne Fruchtenicht, Sharon Watson and Carrie McNatt while Mary Fleming, Kim Iverson, Cheryl Ogren and Sue Heinzel round out the line-up as fullbacks.

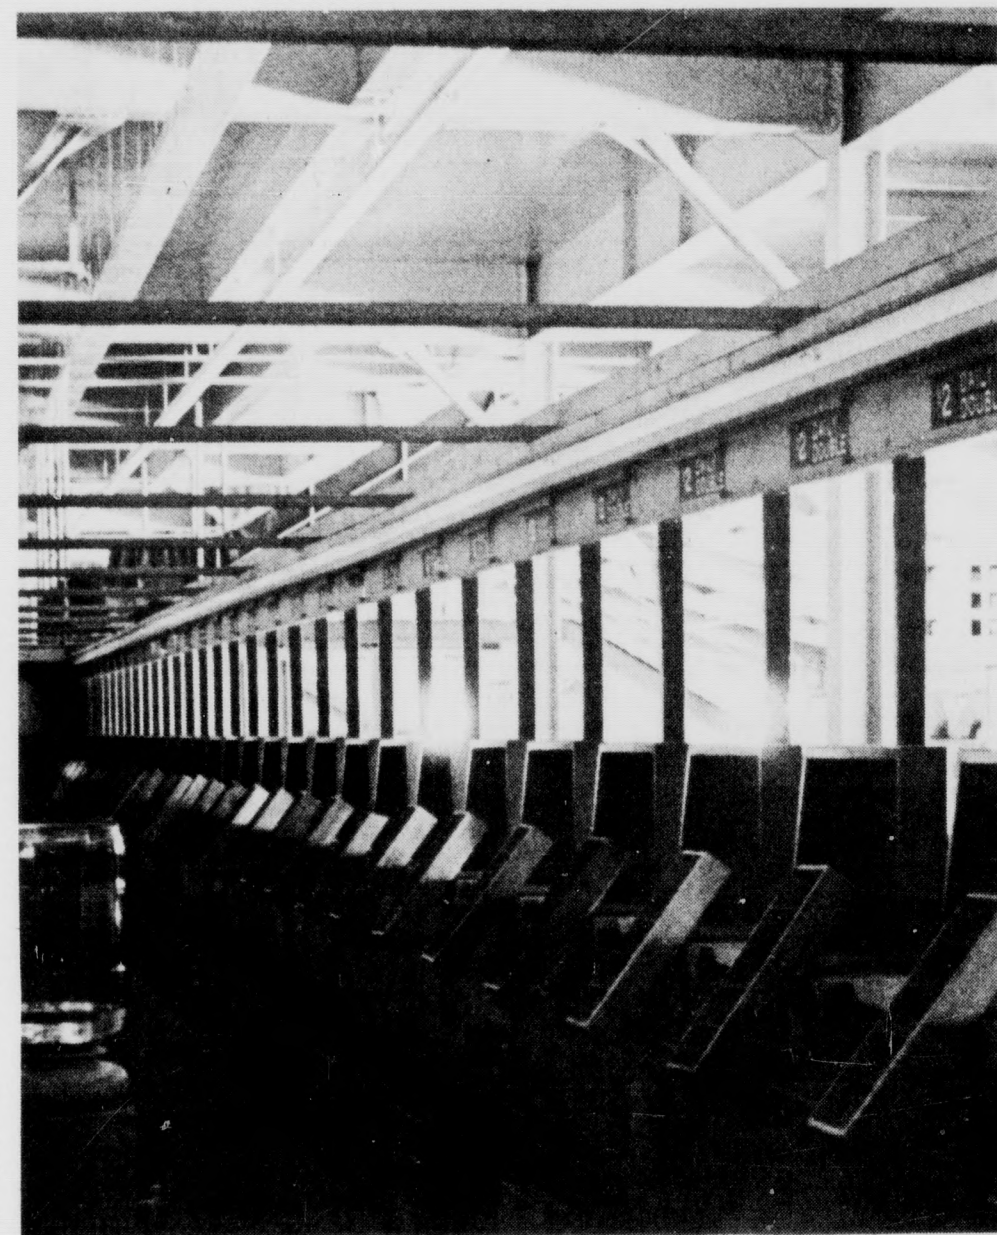

The under-18 San Ramon Superior squad will be the only U.S. team, like the Patriots, in their division. The Superiors captured the number one spot in California with their May 2 win over the Los Angeles Dominators, and are top-seeded at the Calgary tourney.

The Superiors have a long list of credits which include three tournament championships, the District III title and the State Cup crown. They will be taking to Canada a "rock-ribbed defense" and a "well-balanced, high scoring offense," and they have the statistics to prove it.

The squad, coached by Jean Boehm or "Mother Superior" as she is often called, have compiled a first-year record of 41-4-3 and amassed an amazing 175 goals while allowing only 64 by opponents.

Members of this fleet-footed squad are Peggy Baker, Kathy Buckowatz, Jodi Catala, Alicia Crumpler, Deanna Galant, Janet Jenkins, Cindy Miller, P.J. Moore, Patti Riebl, Heidi Shelton, Terry Sinnott, Cheryl Thompson, Sandy Warburton and Kathy Williams.

Munoz leads jockeys

Racing delays effect purse

Enrique Munoz is the leading jockey on the Northern California Fair Racing circuit after the conclusion of the opening stop, the Solano County Fair, Saturday.

Dale Long ran off and hid from his opposition in the appaloosa quarter horse division as both riders set new records for the Vallejo meeting.

Munoz, the leading rider at Golden Gate Fields this spring, won 20 races at Vallejo to beat Randy Schacht and Arthur Ochoa, who were tied for second with eight each.

The Mexican-born Munoz was in the money with 38 of his 61 mounts, including five getaway day wins.

Long, meanwhile, had a remarkable 12 days, scoring with 10 of his 18 quarter horse - appaloosa mounts; a startling 55 per cent wins.

Two seconds and a third brought his in-the-money percentage up to 77.7.

Playing second fiddle to Long, who was the only rider to pilot winners among all three breeds racing on the fair circuit, was William Slape with five victories.

THOROUGHBRED STANDINGS

Quarter Horse Standings

Horse racing at the Alameda County Fairgrounds was again delayed yesterday with no prospect for beginning the program in sight.

The 12-day meet has now lost the first two days of its schedule. The total purse for the meet schedule was $575,000 but has been curtailed greatly because of the two-day delay. However, the fact July 4 is a Sunday will not hurt the track's income. Monday is a legal holiday. If the holiday was on Saturday the loss would be greater.

Dons rout Alameda

SAN LEANDRO — Chris DePrater threaded the nets with 18 points worth of outside shooting as the Pleasanton Dons stayed undefeated in summer basketball, beating the Alameda Jets, 55-31 at the Boys' Club here last night.

The Dons picked up their third win in the San Leandro League, in which they are coached by Amador Valley High School's Skip Mohatt to go with two wins in the Pleasanton Allied Brokers League and an exhibition victory, making them 6-0 overall.

After jumping to a 21-8 lead after the first quarter, Pleasanton was never in serious danger of losing. However, an aggressive group of vacationing En-cinal High School players was able to force the Dons into numerous first-half turnovers.

But, with the exception of high-point man Charley Vertucio the Jets couldn't produce any offensive firepower.

In the third quarter Rick Howard, the Dons' second highest scorer with eight, starred, even to the extent of netting a rare four-point play to wrap up the period scoring.

The game turned into something Pleasanton residents may not get to see this summer at the outset of the third quarter a horse race. Alameda capitalized briefly with a four-surge but missed a brace of free throws during the heart of the streak that dashed the Jet's hopes for a Cinderella rally.
